PHILOSOPHY

PHILOSOPHY

Everyone has problems:

- Pressures at home and at work
- Stress
- Conflicts with co-workers and family

Most of the time, you probably manage just fine, solving your problems on your own or with the help of your family and friends.

But what happens when you aren't able to work things out on your own?

Regardless of where they start, unresolved problems can quickly spread to affect other areas of your life. Problems at work create tensions at home; family problems often show up in job performance; emotional problems affect your physical health.

EFAP SERVICE
